

As part of this proceeding, the commission must look inward. This proceeding has the potential of creating numerous interference complaints. Does the Commission have the resources to handle them. That question must be answered before any other addresses can be addressed. The commission has complained that they are understaffed, field offices have been closed.

Before going forward on this, the Commission must answer these questions.